TEXAS RANGERS ARE UP-TO-DATE OUTFIT

Become a Specialized Crime Detection Body.

Austin, Texas.—The Texas Rangers were organized in 1874 to put an end to cattle rustling, marauding Indians and the general lawlessness of the frontier Lone Star state. Their hard riding, straight shooting exploits won them prominence in the history of the wild west. But in recent years, with the arrival of automobile and radio, the Rangers declined into a practically useless institution.

As one veteran expressed it: "While crime was traveling at 85 miles an hour we still were back in the horse and buggy days. Crime used to be local; now it is state and nationwide. The lone Ranger who once could track down a cattle thief vaulted now may be dealing with a dope ring having connections in all parts of the country."

But now Texas has brought its Rangers up to date again. Reorganization this summer has made the 36 remaining Rangers a division of the new department of public safety. A companion division, the state highway patrol of 140, will take over the former duties of the Rangers, such as guarding trials and suppressing disturbances. In effect the Rangers become the detective division or "Scotland Yard" of the state. Tom Hickman, famous captain of the headquarters company, will be chief of the intelligence division of the public safety department.

For modern detection of crime the Rangers will have a college crime laboratory, a state-wide collection of finger prints, teletype machines reporting all state crime. Furthermore they will have the co-operation of local officers—something more than they have had in past times. Most important, however, is the removal of the organization from political manipulation. A public safety commission of three nonsalaried men serving staggered six year terms heads the whole department. The present number of Rangers will be on probation for six months before additions by examinations are made.

Business Schools Must Teach Bible in Austria

Vienna.—Austria's future merchants, bankers and industrialists must know their Bible and catechism as well as how to amass dividends.

One of the latest decrees of the Schuschnigg-Starhemberg clerico-Fascist government requires that satisfactory examinations must be passed in religion before graduation from schools of business, which are conducted by the state.

The predecessor shows, by students explaining to examining authorities that they understand the significance of religion will be rejected on their diplomas. Extensive students must take an additional preliminary examination in religion before acceptance by schools.

Dangers for Newcomer Abound on Desert Land

Dilbont, French Somaliland.—The Mediterranean offers fresh terrors as it greets smoking volcanoes to its shore; the Red sea, conscious of an unenviable reputation, bristles with sharks and prickly heat. It attacks on neither

Of the two, the sharks are predictable. They swim lazily around the ship at anchor and the sailors, who take shy bait thrown overboard, then sometimes quickly bite the line back rope-in two and make off with hook and all.

The sharks' cut incautious native swimmers, but they do not come aboard ship. They strictly keep down. It takes up residence on any part of the body.

Methuselah Horse Still Does a Good Day's Work

Halifax, N. S.—Harry, dean of Nova Scotia equines and the "oldest horse in the world," celebrated his thirty-second birthday recently.

So far as Bridgedales are concerned that's a world record and will continue to be unless some one pops up with conclusive evidence to the contrary. Harry observed the occasion by nibbling an extra portion of oats.

He is owned by a firm of spar and oar makers and still knocks off a day's work now and then just to show the others that the years have left him fit as ten. His teeth are every bit as good as those of a youngster of twenty.

Skill of Laborer Relieves Sufferers

Lima, Ohio.—Declared to be a mechanical marvel of medical science, a homemade machine which physicians claim will save the lives of sufferers in the advanced stages of diseases of the blood vessels, is in possession of the staff at Lima Memorial hospital, a gift from the inventor, Raymond Skelly, forty-five years old. Lima factory worker. Skelly built the machine after the device cost only 20 cents to build. Mr. Skelly, who called it "just a pump and hose," and doctors asserted it will prove highly valuable in the treatment of certain circulatory ailments.

The physicians tried out the device on a patient whose veins are filled from decomposed blood clots. In one minutes the doctors said, there was a healthy pink flush, resulting from removal of blood coagulation in the leg.

The Executive and Finance Committee are the following members: R. E. Garland, F. S. Blanton, G. M. Robertson, E. S. Shields, N. B. Davidson, Dr. J. L. Jarman, R. K. Brock, J. E. Garland, E. W. Sanford, J. A. Love, and J. L. Jones.

Opportunity Given Citizens to Share In Great Benefit

Dr. W. E. Waddell Is Resident Physician

The Southside Community Hospital is managed by the board of directors who are elected from the territory which the hospital serves. The Hospital Service of Virginia, Incorporated, the Medical Society of Virginia, the University of Virginia, and the Commonwealth of New York but this community did its part. Each year the hospital is definitely a community activity, nothing whatever to do with making money for the hospital. Their whole object is to render aid and service to the sick in the best of ways, for instance: there is a resident physician at the hospital who gives his entire time to the patients—his salary is paid by the Commonwealth Fund. The present resident physician is Dr. W. E. Waddell, of Lexington. He is a graduate of the Medical School of the University of Virginia, and last year did his interne work in Cincinnati.

From the very beginning of the hospital the Fund has provided Fellowships through which graduate of the doctors in the district have been engaged to have several months of graduate study in the best hospitals of the country. The chief of staff of the Southside Community hospital is composed of the physicians, surgeons, and dentists of the South side area. In other words the hospital offers the community the best treatment in case of need of medical aid, at the patient's own physician in charge of the case.

Dr. Sydnor Chairman of Southside Medicos

Dr. W. J. Sydnor of Farmville, was elected chairman of the executive board of the Southside Virginia Medical Association at the fall session of the convention held at Petersburg last week-end.

More than sixty physicians attended the session, on which occasion Dr. Sydnor succeeded Dr. Blackstock, president. Dr. Perrymond was named president-elect of the association, and will take office at the next annual session.

STRAUS COMPANY SERVES THE SOUTHSIDE HOSPITAL

The Straus Company, of Richmond, cater to hospital needs over the entire country throughout the Virginias and Carolinas. They specialize in dining room and diet service of ways, for instance: Recently they furnished complete supply of all kinds to the hospital who gives his entire time to the patients—his salary is paid by the Commonwealth Fund. The present resident physician is Dr. W. E. Waddell, of Lexington. He is a graduate of the Medical School of the University of Virginia, and last year did his interne work in Cincinnati.

CONDUCTS CAMPAIGN FOR HOSPITAL FUND

S. M. HOLTON JR. a member of the Farmville State Teachers College faculty, who will personally direct the Southside Hospital campaign, October 7th to Nov. 7th.

An Open Letter

Our Hospital will be eight years old on November 7th, the last day of our campaign. When the study of the need of this community for a hospital was made, before its erection, it was necessary in making the survey, to rely upon tangible data to a certain extent, but now, after eight years, we have the facts and figures which conclusively prove that our hospital was a necessity.

I hope that most of the citizens in the Hospital area have read the news items which have appeared in the local papers for some weeks past, as well as the pamphlet which has been distributed. In this way we have tried to tell the people something about the actual work which has been done. I feel it is unnecessary for me to give here these statistics.

We are extremely thankful that today we have such a host of friends. Without this our task would be almost insurmountable. As President I want to publicly acknowledge the great and sacrificial service which has been rendered by the Board of Directors and the Executive and Finance Committees. There are regular monthly and quarterly meetings of these bodies. I want to say for the benefit of those who have not had personal contact with the hospital, that we have a most excellent staff of doctors, nurses and administrative officers.

I am afraid that few people really know the extent of the financial problems that have constantly faced the Board and Committees. All through the years when meetings of these bodies have been held, the report from the office has shown accounts payable up in the thousands over and above our cash on hand, and it has been impossible although the institution has been run with the most rigid economy consistent with efficiency. And our case is not different from the cases of practically all endowed charitable institutions. I wish to make grateful acknowledgment at this time of the appropriations by some of the Boards of Supervisors in the hospital area, as well as contributions of other groups and individu als, which have meant such a substantial reduction in the annual deficit.

Your officers and Board have decided that you would not like for the hospital to continue to be charged with such a deficiency in working capital. What a magnificent thing it would be if we could have a reasonable working capital and pay our obligations on time. Hospitals should be run on a business-like basis in the same way that private enterprises are conducted. Therefore, we give you this opportunity to correct this situation and our goal is $5,000.00 for this purpose.

The Commonwealth Fund of New York, which contributed the greater portion of the cost of the building and equipment, but which is not allowed to contribute to its maintenance, has suggested the erection of a Nurses' Home. Our Hospital is the only one of those helped by the Commonwealth Fund that does not have a Nurses' Home. The erection of this building is the most desirable and practically a necessity. The rooms now used by the nurses would be converted into six private rooms, which are urgently needed and which would help to add to our revenue. They offer to erect the home at an approximate cost of $25,000. Completed this community will contribute only $5,000. It will be a memorial to E. S. Martin, who guided the institution during the recent financial stress, and whose faith in it was never stronger than during the illness which preceded his death. Can we refuse such an offer? We cannot.

My friends, these are the reasons we have determined upon a campaign, from October 7th to Nov. 7th, to raise this $10,000. I am convinced that you will support us, and that we will go over the goal. I believe that you want to give at this time to this most worthy cause.

Faithfully and sincerely yours,

R. E. GARLAND, President

SUPERINTENDENT

MISS CAROLYN B. SYKES assumed the duties as superintendent of the Southside Community Hospital, Sept. 1, 1931. Miss Sykes was assistant superintendent of the Roanoke Hospital prior to that time. She succeeded Miss Lydia M. Haase.

Since becoming superintendent of the Southside Community Hospital on September 1, 1931, Miss Carolyn B. Sykes, has successfully guided the hospital affairs through a trying period. She came to Farmville fully capable of supervising the hospital having been assistant superintendent of the Roanoke Hospital for six years where she made an excellent record of service. She is a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital, Richmond where she received her training.

For several years Miss Sykes was the operating room supervisor at the James Walker Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, N. C. The various assignments of hospital work before and after her training fitted her for the duties of superintendent which she has so capably performed in that capacity at the Southside Hospital. She has just returned from Chicago where she attended advanced classes in hospitalization.

Planting Peonies

Early fall is the season generally recommended for peony planting. It is advisable to provide a light mulch of straw, evergreen or other material during the first winter.

Peonies should be planted at the correct depth in the soil, so the plants grow in the field, the buds are set or just above the surface of the soil. If the buds, or eyes, are buried from two to several inches below the surface of the soil, the plants may fail to bloom or even to produce flower buds.

The hole in which the peony division is set must be deep enough for the roots to spread. The soil is firmed about the roots. This does not mean that the soil should be tramped down, but the division should be firmly in place when all the soil has been returned. Planting in dry soil may be watered.

At least four feet should be left between adjacent roots or clumps. This may appear to be too much room when the plants are young but in a mature planting of some types, four feet is barely enough room between clumps. Dwarf varieties may be set as closely as two feet when the clumps are intended to form a compact row or hedge.

Airplane lines have now started to ship perishable foods by air.

Nine Counties Should Rally To Aid Hospital Fund

Hospital Aided By the Commonwealth Fund of New York

Commonwealth Fund Stands Ready To Help

Opportunity is now being offered the people of the counties of Buckingham, Appomattox, Buckingham, Charlotte, Cumberland, Lunenburg, Nottoway, Powhatan, and Prince Edward to make a community investment that will be repaid many times now and in years to come by increased service to the community in which they live. The Commonwealth Fund of New York, since the founding of the hospital the benefactor of the institution, recognizing the need for increased service to the community has made a proposition that good business, such less community pride and interest, cannot afford to refuse.

The proposition of the Fund includes the full spirit of cooperation. There is a great need for more space in the hospital to care for patients of this community. There is also need for a larger revenue if the hospital is going to be able to give its fullest service to the area. The proposition now before the people of Southside Virginia might be called a fire or six to one offer. If the Southside Community Hospital area will raise the sum of $5,000 the Commonwealth Fund will erect at the hospital a nurses home at a cost of between $30,000 and $35,000.

With the building of this home the rooms now used by the nurses will be turned into rooms for patients, the revenues of the hospital will thus potentially be increased, and the hospital will be better enabled to meet its obligations as they come due. This offer is not going to be refused, for the people of this section of Virginia recognize the unusual opportunity which is theirs. Community pride will dictate the raising of this $5,000. Good business sense such an offer cannot be refused. The Commonwealth Fund stands ready to fulfill its part of the offer. If the community will show that it is interested and ready and willing to do its comparatively small part, the nurses' home will be assured.

Since the opening of the hospital the struggle has been a hand-to-mouth one. Many of the political units of the area have contributed to the support of the hospital, but even with such fine support, the increasing amount of free work done each year by the hospital has left the institution with an annual deficit which has had to be made up by the faithful friends of the institution. Practically every monthly meeting of the executive and finance committee sees bills ordered paid with no money to pay them. And it costs just as much to care for a free patient as to care for a full-patient. Since the hospital has spend nearly $80,000 worth of free work has been done, and this does not include the thousands of dollars of free work done in the clinics. The political units have in this time given $47,000 to the support of the hospital. In other words the yearly differences between the amount of free work done and the contributions of the various counties has amounted to approximately $5,000.

Because it is desired to put the hospital on a better financial basis, the campaign which is now taking has as an added purpose the raising of $5,000 for operation and maintenance of the hospital. When the sum is raised, and the revenue capacity of the hospital is increased by the addition of the six rooms now used by the nurses, it is thought that the hospital will be able to be on a pay as it goes basis.

An appeal is made to the people of the hospital area. Let's raise the $10,000 requested! If everyone will give what he can, whether it be large or small, the sum will easily be raised. Don't say no, just because your gift will be small. Everybody give, and just see how easily you can do your part toward making the Southside Community Hospital the best medical center in Virginia.

Virginia Farms Show Increase of 26,000

Virginia has a substantial "back-to-the-land" movement in progress with an increase of more than 26,000 farms, aggregating more than a million acres, since 1930, according to statistics compiled by the Census Bureau of the United States Department of Commerce.

Values of farm properties in the State, however, have dropped $263,082,636 during the five years of the depression.

The number of farms in the State has increased from 170,610 in 1930 to 192,242 in 1935; acreage from 16,728,620 to 17,635,274, while the values of land and buildings dropped from $855,849,672 in 1930 to $92,767,035 in 1935.

Would Have Family Study Its Finances

A program designed to help families improve their money management practices is presented by home economics specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Keep Records—Keep complete records of all money matters. There is no other way of knowing where the money goes. Records show how the money is spent, where leaks are, expenditures that cause worry, and what it costs to live.

Analyze Records—Study account books often, and make a complete analysis once a year. This results in a budget system and tends to keep down extravagance and over-spending.

Hold Family Councils—All members of the family should enter into discussions of money matters, offer suggestions, assume responsibilities and learn to be fair in the division of family income.

Buy Intelligently—Study values and make records of brands, makes, wearing qualities and service. Do not buy in haste. If in doubt about a value, pass it up. Wise buying may increase the purchasing power of a dollar by 10 percent.

DR. J. L. JARMAN

R. E. GARLAND

The three chairmen of the Southside Community Hospital board of directors have been Dr. J. L. Jarman, E. Scott Martin, and R. E. Garland. Dr. Jarman was chairman of the original drive in 1926 which resulted in the hospital. He was chairman of the board from 1927 to 1930. Mr. Martin was chairman of the board from 1930 until his death in September, 1934. Mr. Garland is the present chairman.

Set Goals—Set goals for accomplishment. This should include general living expense, education, insurance, old age pension or retirement, etc. Unless there are goals, the family likely will never reach any definite accomplishments.

Funeral Service For Matthew L. Eggleston

Matthew Lyle Eggleston, 72, died in Roanoke Hospital Wednesday morning at 9:30 and will be buried at College cemetery in the Eggleston section. Friday afternoon at 2 p. m. He was a son of G. Markham Eggleston of Worsham, and succeeded his father as a merchant at Worsham and at Hampden-Sydney, where he was postmaster for many years.

Mr. Eggleston until two years ago was a druggist at Port Norfolk. On account of failing health he spent the last two years in Roanoke.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Mary Pitzhugh, of Pulaski, a graduate of the State Teachers College and well known here, four sons and three daughters.
